A GREAT WAY TO FLY

Happy birthday, Singapore!

The Lion City turns 52 on 9 August, and you're about to witness a slew of fun-filled festivities across the island during this period.

Aside from celebrating Singapore's birthday at the National Day Parade at the Esplanade with spectacular fireworks displays to look out for, the 2017 FORMULA 1 SINGAPORE AIRLINES SINGAPORE GRAND PRIX rolls into town – bringing you a thrilling weekend of electrifying live performances and exhilarating action on and off the track.

What's more? Revel in the celebrations of art at the Singapore Night Festival and Singapore International Festival of Arts. Also, not to be missed is the oh-so-popular Epicurean Market where a rare gastronomic affair awaits at Marina Bay Sands.

But the fun doesn't stop there – with plenty more exciting gigs, parties, shopping events and new restaurants on the horizon, Singapore will leave you breathless, that's for sure!

Connectivity

FREE WIFI

Register for free public Wi-Fi service with your foreign mobile number at any Wireless@SG hotspot across Singapore, and receive your login details via an SMS message. Overseas charges may apply. Alternatively, you can rent a pocket Wi-Fi device at Singapore Visitor Centre (orchardgateway) or Changi Recommends at Changi Airport.

SIM CARD

From April onwards, telcos in Singapore will cease the provision of the 2G network in Singapore. Buy a Singapore prepaid SIM card to support 3G/4G roaming from Singapore Visitor Centre (orchardgateway), Changi Recommends and telecommunication retail shops located at the airport, major shopping malls and convenience stores island-wide.

Don't Miss!

There is always something happening on the second floor of the Singapore Visitor Centre at orchardgateway! Culinary and hands-on activities are curated each month for visitors who wish to find out more about Singapore's culture. For the month of July, visitors get to taste some of our local snacks like muah chee (glutinous rice cakes) or kacang puteh (variety of beans, nuts and peas). In August we celebrate our National Day through our childhood games of the past, before gadgets were invented, think hopscotch, five stones and chapteh (shuttlecock kicking). Finally in September, visitors can look forward to tasting and learning how to make mooncakes and lanterns, as we lead up to the Mid-Autumn festival.

Local Quirks

Uncle / Aunty

Out of respect, locals address older folks on the street, like a shopkeeper or a taxi driver, as "aunty" or "uncle", even if they are not related.

Chope

It means to reserve a place or call dibs on something. If you see a pack of tissues on a seat or table at a hawker centre during lunch hour, try your luck elsewhere: the spot has been choped.

Queuing Up

Waiting in line for the latest and the best in the city is a way of life for Singaporeans. We do it all the time – and whatever you get at the end of the queue might be worth your while, too.

Singlish, explained

Shiok

Fantastic, or to convey feelings of satisfaction and pleasure
"This plate of chicken rice is damn shiok!"

Kiasu

A fiercely competitive spirit
"She queued for four hours to get the latest iPhone - so kiasu!"

Boleh

A Malay word for "can" or "possible"

"You check on the movie timings and I'll handle the bookings. Boleh?"

Lah

A suffix used to place emphasis on the sentence; used to express certainty

"Dont worry about it lah!"

Language

English is the spoken language, though Singlish – a collection of colloquial catchphrases and lingo – dominates everyday conversations among locals. Mandarin, Malay, Tamil and various other dialects are also used.

Har-na

A way of acknowledging something someone says

A: "Don't be late for tomorrow's appointment!"
B: "Har-na, I won't!"

Tapao

The Singlish equivalent of takeaway
"I'm going to tapao lunch from the hawker centre."

Shopping

For a pleasant shopping experience, compare prices, enquire about refund policies, and check the invoice as well as the warranty of the product before making a purchase. More information and shopping tips can be found on the Consumer Advisory section at VisitSingapore.com (under "Traveller Essentials").

For assistance or to flag inappropriate retailer behaviour, call 1800 736 2000 or email feedback@stb.gov.sg.

Tipping

It is not usual practice to tip in Singapore, although it is appreciated by service staff. Most hotels and restaurants quote price as "++," which includes 10% service charge and 7% Goods and Services Tax (GST).

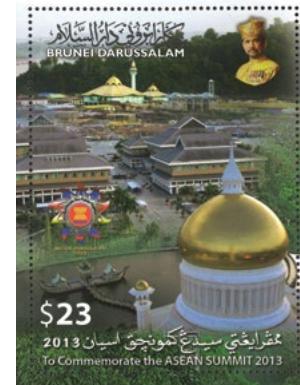

Jul

Foodies, get your tummies ready! This July, discover Singapore's culinary gems at the exciting Singapore Food Festival. Also, it's time to celebrate Hari Raya Aidilfitri with friends and families by visiting the Malay Heritage Centre or revel in the festivities at Pesta Raya, Malay Festival of Arts. If you've got a taste for great performances, spend an evening at the Drama Centre Theatre to catch an inspiring musical about love, strength and walls called The Great Wall: One Woman's Journey, or make a date with the famous team of acrobats from Cirque du Soleil.

GRAND PRIX SEASON SINGAPORE 2017

The 2017 FORMULA 1 SINGAPORE AIRLINES SINGAPORE GRAND PRIX

(15, 16 & 17 Sep) is definitely one of the biggest highlights of the year. This motor-racing extravaganza is now in its tenth edition and fans of the exhilarating sport can once again experience a weekend of adrenaline-pumping night races set against Singapore's glittering cityscape.

Spectators can also look forward to the Grand Prix Season Singapore 2017 (8-17 Sep), filled with star-studded entertainment, non-stop after-parties, unbeatable retail and dining promos, as well as arts and cultural events.

Besides checking out the who's-who of FORMULA 1 (think Sebastian Vettel and Lewis Hamilton), you can also catch the off-track entertainment by pop music superstars. Kylie Minogue, and Queen + Adam Lambert were a few of last year's highlights.

Also, get ready to work those dancing shoes at the event's glamourous after-parties and be seen hobnobbing with celebrities, FORMULA 1 drivers and supermodels at the chi-chi Amber Lounge (16-17 Sep) and Podium Lounge (16-18 Sep) – you'll be toasting to a night of revelry with an endless flow of Champagne.

Feeling peckish from the excitement? Take a breather at bars in the vicinity such as Smoke & Mirrors, and Lantern to enjoy killer nosh deals available during the period.

If you're not into fast cars, pop by the Singapore International Festival of Arts (5 Aug-9 Sep) for a dose of thought-provoking contemporary art exhibitions and performances by local and Southeast Asian artists. Also, soak in the sights of the city – the best place to start is at Chinatown. Enjoy some family-friendly fun with exciting activities in the weeks leading up to the Mid-Autumn Festival (4 Oct).

Exposé SINGAPORE FOOD FESTIVAL

When a trip to the Lion City beckons, it usually means that you should save your appetite for gastronomical feasts from Singapore's vibrant dining scene.

At the Singapore Food Festival (14-30 Jul), join in the celebration of iconic celebration of iconic local dishes, new interpretations of hawker favourites and fun, interactive activities for the family.

Each year, the festival highlights the best of Singapore cuisine, including hawker grub, Mod-Sin (Modern Singapore) nosh, and special collaborations between veteran hawkers and emerging culinary talents. Like its previous editions, SFF will kick off with its signature event, STREAT, which will feature Michelin-starred Peranakan chef Malcolm Lee and Chef Willin Low, who coined the term Mod-Sin cuisine, joining hands at an exciting pop-up restaurant, alongside a curated selection of 12 food stalls.

Another returning event is Culinary Creations at ION Orchard (Jun 9 -Jul 31). Making its comeback with a greater focus on local cuisines, Culinary Creations offers a slew of fun activities – from a Chocolate Wonderland where you can live your wildest chocolate dreams (with a local twist) to a local cultural pop-up that aims to educate the public on Singapore's Peranakan culture through food.

Also, look out for Singapore's first food and dance experience which interweaves local culinary creations with contemporary dance. Hop over to Open Stoves by Timbre+ and be greeted by an outdoor beer garden with live wok stations, live cooking demos as well as live performances by both local and overseas bands.

Eeshaun

Outstanding homegrown artist and illustrator, Eeshaun, is the artist behind this issue's unique cover. Eeshaun is an Asian Kinetic Artist for Tiger Translate and he has been nominated for the 2012 Sovereign Asian Art Prize. He has also produced artworks and illustrations for big labels such as Adidas, Nike and Facebook. We speak to him about his inspirations behind his art, his fave island haunts and more.

Photo credit:
Joel Low

Photo credit:
Joel Low

This issue's cover aims to...

encapsulate a good mix of different elements of Singapore's unique heritage – from heritage architectures to traditional games. Interestingly, the idea of creating "little windows" of Singapore's icons for the cover differs from the stylistic approach of drawings that I'd usually go for where I'd typically mash up various visuals together.

The local art scene has...

indeed come a long way. With the help of social media, young artists are able to self-promote themselves via their personal websites, Facebook or Instagram, and the public has easier access to discover new local talents. What's more? We are also seeing ground-up initiatives like pop-up shows, flea markets, self-run galleries.

My art is influenced by...

bright colours, humour, and abstraction. Some of my proudest works as an artist include the eye-catching mural 'Move!' at Bishan Circle Line; and the colourful National Gallery Bench entitled 'So As To Achieve Happiness, Prosperity and Progress for Our Nation' at the Art Connector.

Two of my favourite local foods are...

a delicious bowl of lao huo tang (slow-cooked Chinese soups) which you can find at most hawker centres, as well as muaah chee (glutinous rice cakes) from Hougang Six Miles Muah Chee at Toa Payoh Hub.

Some of my go-to hang-out spots include...

Blu Jaz Café where jazz connoisseurs go to for great live music and drinks, and Kult Kafe where big-time parties like the Silent Disco and its monthly Sunday On The Hill are typically held. I also like to walk around The Shoppes at Marina Bay Sands as some of the window displays there are really quite artistic and amazing.

If friends from out of town are here for a visit...

I'll take my culture vulture buddies to the National Gallery Singapore to appreciate Southeast Asian modern art or we'll visit the ArtScience Museum to view notable exhibits and works from iconic artists. But if they're music junkies, a stopover at Red Point Records is a must!

8 VISIT ONE OF SINGAPORE'S OLDEST RELIGIOUS SITES - SRI VEERAMAKALIAMMAN HINDU TEMPLE

Navigator NEIGHBOURHOOD WATCH

Think of Singapore and the shiny image of modern metropolis probably comes to mind: towering skyscrapers, world-class attractions and, of course, endless shopping streets. But you'll find that there's much more to Singapore when you explore our neighbourhoods, each with its own feel, identity and highlights. These are the city's finest 'hoods to explore:

Good for foodies JALAN BESAR

Also known as "big street" (Jalan Besar means "big road" in Malay), this eclectic neighbourhood has been attracting foodies in droves for decades, thanks to a string of long-time culinary stalwarts like Swee Choon Tim Sun Restaurant (191 Jalan Besar). The once-low-key precinct is now a hip hangout for folks looking for great coffee, comforting café grub, indie shopping and unique local dining experiences.

Good for high-street and luxury boutiques ORCHARD ROAD

No shopping jaunt in Singapore is complete without a visit to Orchard Road. Lined with sparkly malls, the renowned shopping belt is decked with high-street and luxury boutiques such as Prada (#01-01 and #02-15, ION Orchard), Y-3 (#01-05, Mandarin Gallery) and the first global flagship UNIQLO store at Orchard Central.

Good for art and culture BRAS BASAH.BUGIS

As one of the oldest districts in Singapore, BBB has weathered British colonialisation, the Japanese Occupation, the state's merger with Malaya, and decades of trading. Major museums like National Museum of Singapore, Singapore Art Museum, and National Design Centre are just a stone's throw away from each other, which is perfect for museum-hopping.

Good for a swanky night out MARINA BAY

Though Marina Bay was only constructed in the last four decades on reclaimed land, the area has fast become the ultimate representation of Singapore. Its collection of architectural wonders includes Marina Bay Sands, an integrated resort comprising a luxury hotel, a museum, a theatre, and a shopping mall.

Good for kid-friendly activities SENTOSA

Zip-lining, skydiving, snorkelling, golfing – Sentosa is where everyone goes to have the most fun away from the city. Carve out a day for Resorts World Sentosa, where you'll find Universal Studios Singapore, S.E.A. Aquarium, Adventure Cove Waterpark, as well as celebrity restaurants, retail stores and spas.

Good for hip cafes TIONG BAHRU

Before it became one of the city's coolest neighbourhood, Tiong Bahru – also one of Singapore's oldest housing estates – was notorious for housing the mistresses of the rich and powerful during the pre-World War II years. Now, it's a hotspot for scenesters, expats and out-of-towners looking for artisanal coffee (40 Hands), books (BooksActually), local grub (Tiong Bahru Market & Food Centre) and more.

Good for historical sights CIVIC DISTRICT

This is where it all began. Started as a master plan in 1822 by founder of Singapore, Sir Stamford Raffles, to cater to the needs of a thriving trade post, the Civic District is where Singapore's most important buildings stand. On the banks of the Singapore River, you'll find the old Parliament House (now The Arts House), the former City Hall and Supreme Court (now National Gallery Singapore), as well as Victoria Theatre and Concert Hall.

JOO CHIAT/ KATONG

In the day

1 Your introduction to the Peranakan culture begins with the Instagram-worthy pastel shophouses at Koon Seng Road, which have been around since the 1900s.

2 Take in the beautiful and historical Sri Senpaga Vinayagar Temple (19 Ceylon Road), one of Singapore's oldest Hindu temples, which has an interior embellished with intricate murals and domes plated with gold.

3 Dig in to kaya (coconut jam) toast, soft-boiled eggs and kopi (coffee), a combination traditionally eaten at breakfast, at Chin Mee Chin Confectionary (204 East Coast Road), which has retained its 1950s décor and charm.

4 Need a break? Cool down with a Tropical Coconut Bowl, acai served in a young coconut husk, at An Acai Affair (101 East Coast Road).

5 Tuck into Peranakan-inspired dishes accompanied by a modern twist like Beef Short Ribs Rendang (beef short ribs in coconut cream and spices, served with fragrant rice) and the 'Ayam Buah Keluak' Burger (Peranakan-inspired burger with grilled chicken patty, Asian pickles, topped with pureed buah keluak (black nut indigenous to Southeast Asia) on a multigrain burger) at Baba Chews Bar & Eatery (86 East Coast Road).

6 Pop by Heavenly Wang @ The Red House (63 East Coast Road) for a quick cup of kopi or tea - best when accompanied by some local traditional pastries and toast.

7 Drop by 112 Katong (112 East Coast Road), a mall in the heart of Joo Chiat/Katong. Visit Naiise which carries a full range of items ranging from decorative homeware, fashion and beauty, or check out the innovative consignment shop Toy Outpost.

In the evening

Start your afternoon with a haircut or wash and blowdry at the industrial-chic Bloc The Salon (462 Joo Chiat Road) that's located in a heritage shophouse. The salon is owned by veteran hairstylist Celisa Tham, who has over 10 years of experience styling the clients from the entertainment and creative industries.

Indulge in ngoh hiang (five spice meat rolls), assam fish head curry, sambal kangkong (water spinach) and other mouth-watering Nonya fare at the nostalgic and charming Peranakan Inn & Lounge (210 East Coast Road).

3 Stroll by the row of beautiful residential terrace houses at 150 East Coast Road. These houses were built on raised ground to protect against the rising tides.

Shop for home deco, bags, local books and zines at indie lifestyle shop Cat Socrates (448 Joo Chiat Road). And of course, catch a glimpse of the resident feline in the shop.

5 Pick up a traditional Nonya dumpling (savoury steamed rice dumplings filled with sweet meat and wrapped in fragrant pandan leaves), at Kim Choo Kueh Chang (111 East Coast Road). After you are done, stop by Rumah Bebe (113 East Coast Road) to admire the elaborate architecture of the 1928 shophouse, or shop for Peranakan furnishings, porcelain, sarong kebayas (Nonya attire), bags and beaded slippers.

6 Slurp up a delicious bowl of laksa (rice noodles in coconut milk curry broth) at the Gordon Ramsay-approved 328 Katong Laksa (216 East Coast Road).

7 Treat yourself to a scoop of local flavoured ice cream from Island Creamery (456 Joo Chiat Road). Island Creamery specializes in homemade ice cream and is popular for their Singaporean flavours such as Teh Tarik and Pulut Hitam.

Then, munch on local grub and enjoy some craft beer for supper at Alibabar the Hawker Bar (125 East Coast Road). Coffee shop by day, bar by night, Alibabar's diverse stalls also serve burgers and affordable French fare.

Shopping Hotspots

ORCHARD ROAD

One of Asia's most famous shopping streets, Orchard Road is a dream destination for those seeking serious retail therapy in the heart of the city, with its endless rows of sparkly shopping malls.

Hawker Highlights

Chomp your way through Singapore's vibrant street food culture with seven of the most popular local dishes found in hawker centres all over the island. From tucking into a plate of chicken rice to slurping down a spicy bowl of laksa, get your taste buds ready for a gastronomical adventure!

CHILLI CRAB

A true blue Singaporean speciality, the chilli crab is a favourite staple served at zi char (Chinese home-style cooking) restaurants here. The invention of this dish can be attributed to pushcart hawker Madam Cher Yam Tian. The original recipe was then reinvented by the owner of Dragon Phoenix restaurant, who added the popular mix of eggs, sambal (chilli paste), and tomato paste.

WHERE TO EAT:

Roland Restaurant (#06-750, 89 Marine Parade Central) by Madam Cher's son, and Dragon Phoenix restaurant (#06-00 Novotel Clarke Quay, 177A River Valley Road).

NASI LEMAK

The allure of nasi lemak lies in its aromatic rice, cooked with coconut milk and pandan leaves.

This traditional Malay dish is served with deep-fried ikan kuning (yellowstripe scad), ikan bilis (fried anchovies), kangkong (water spinach) and sambal (chilli paste), all wrapped in banana leaves. Now, ingredients like peanuts, cucumber slices and fried sunny side-up eggs are popular modern day additions to this indulgent meal.

WHERE TO EAT:

Boon Lay Power Nasi Lemak (#01-106, Blk 221B Boon Lay Place)

ROJAK

This medley of vegetables, fruits and fried dough fritters is a savoury-sweet salad known as rojak, which means "mixed" in Malay. The dish has both Chinese and Malay ingredients such as kangkong (water spinach), bean sprouts, Chinese turnips, pineapples, young mangoes, jambu (rose apples) and fried beancurd; this is all tossed in a thick black sauce made of fermented prawn paste, sugar, lime and chilli paste, and garnished with chopped peanuts.

WHERE TO EAT:

Lau Hong Ser Rojak (#02-14, Dunman Food Centre, 271 Onan Road)

ROTI PRATA

Introduced to Singapore by Indian immigrants, roti prata literally means flat bread (roti). Making this dish is a theatrical process that involves deftly twirling the stretched dough until it is paper thin. The dough is then cooked on an oiled griddle. Try the plain or egg version with sugar and curry, or explore unorthodox creations ranging from the crepe-like roti tissue to an ice cream prata.

WHERE TO EAT:

The Roti Prata House (246M Upper Thomson Rd)

Fish Head Curry

Laksa

Rojak

Chef Bjorn Shen
of Artichoke

Some of my favourite supper spots in Singapore include... the slew of Vietnamese joints along Joo Chiat Road where I can enjoy comforting noodle soups like Bun Bo; and an amazing restaurant in Chinatown called Oriental Chinese Restaurant (195 New Bridge Road) where they serve flavourful Szechuan chicken wings and mutton rib skewers.

For a local culinary experience that is lesser-known... visit New Ubin Seafood Restaurant (63 Hillview Avenue) for its garlic baked crabs. This dish is absolutely tasty and overloaded with whole cloves of sweet, salty and creamy garlic!

LAKSA

Spicy, creamy and yummy – this Peranakan (Straits-born people of Chinese and Malay/Indonesian heritage) dish features an indulgent broth simmered with chicken stock, coconut milk, fish sauce, dried shrimp paste, ikan bilis (anchovies) and various spices. While there are many variations, each bowl is typically also loaded with a hearty mix of rice noodles, prawns, tau pok (fried bean curd skin), fishcakes, cockles and egg.

WHERE TO EAT:

328 Katong Laksa (53 East Coast Road)

FISH HEAD CURRY

This tantalising broth may have borrowed influences from the traditional South Indian curry, but it's a creation that's unique to Singapore. The fish head curry is also available in different variations; the assam fish curry uses a tangy tamarind paste, while other renditions feature a generous dose of coconut milk.

WHERE TO EAT:

Muthu's Curry (#01-01, 7 Dempsey Road)

CHICKEN RICE

A much-beloved national dish, the Hainanese chicken rice is made of three signature ingredients: fragrant pandan rice, roasted or poached chicken chunks, and the unmissable chilli and ginger condiments.

WHERE TO EAT:

Boon Tong Kee (#01-93, 34 Whampoa West)
